

I found a small smoke detector that I am using over my battery storage and charging area to add an additional element of warning and safety. It is small enough that it could be mounted inside a battery storage cabinet or other cinder block storage bunker. While it won't integrate into an existing whole house smoke detector system, it is very small and has a ten year internal battery. It is made by First Alert.

